1. Caer Drewyn
Grade: Moderate - short but some steep sections

Having visited the hillfort, return to the top of the steps. Do not go down the steps, but continue ahead to a gate and track junction at the bottom. Turn right, and follow the track, going through another gate/stile. Continue to another track junction at a fingerpost. Turn left downhill. Ignore paths/lanes to left and right. Having crossed a stream, follow the track left towards a pylon. Continue ahead to the metal fencing (motorcycle inhibitors). Ignore first path on left, but continue to the end of fencing, then turn left down to a path along the old railway line (Corwen Cutting). Continue on this path to the Leisure Centre and car park.

2. Pen-y-pigyn
Grade: Moderate - short but some ascent

Follow the directions for the Liberty Hall walk from the town centre to Pen-y-pigyn viewpoint and then retrace your steps back to the town.

3. Corwen - Cynwyd Railway Line
Grade: Easy - flat with some stiles

From the car park walk to the High Street and turn right. Follow the main road out of Corwen for approximately 1km, passing a factory on the right. Cross the main road where a minor road joins from the left, signed Cynwyd, just before the bridge over the River Dee. Cross the stile on the right at the junction of the minor road and the main road. Follow the narrow path through trees to join a drive. Turn right along the drive and then bear right away from the drive to cross a stile into the riverside garden of a private house. Walk carefully across the lawn, keeping the river on the right. Cross a stile at the far end of the lawn onto a woodland path. This is the disused Corwen - Cynwyd Railway Line and you can follow it for 1.6km to Llangar Church or continue further on the North Berwyn Way to Cynwyd.

Otters thrive in the clean waters of the River Dee

Yn ôl y cofnodion cyntaf o dref Corwen yn 1222 roedd hi'n gymuned grefyddol. Tyfodd yn dref y goets fawr bwysig ar y ffordd A5 rhwng Llundain a Chaergybi. Datblygodd yn dref farchnad ffyniannus ar ôl agor y rheilffordd yn 1866, gan ddod â mwy o dwristiaid ac o fasnach i'r dref.

Caer Drewyn

Adeiladwyd y fryngaer yn ystod Oes yr Haearn, rywdro rhwng 800BC a 43AD ar ben bryn yn edrych dros dref Corwen. Yn annhebyg i fryngeyrydd eraill yn yr ardal nid cloddiau pridd a ffosydd sydd o gwmpas Caer Drewyn ond wal gerrig fawr. Y tu mewn i ran o'r fryngaer gallwch weld olion sylfaen garreg rhai o'r tai crynion.

The historic town of Corwen was first documented as a religious community in 1222. It became an important coaching stop on the A5 route between London and Holyhead and developed into a thriving market town after the railway opened in 1866, bringing increased trade and tourists.

Caer Drewyn Hillfort

The hillfort was built in the Iron Age, sometime between 800BC and 43AD on a hill overlooking Corwen. Unlike other hillforts in this area Caer Drewyn doesn't have earthen banks and ditches but a large dry stonewall. Inside part of the hilllfort you can see remains of the stone foundations of some round houses.
