Llwybr Clywedog Clwyd

1 Lady Bagots drive
Lady Bagot's Drive, a picturesque two mile walk up the River Clywedog that was originally laid as a carriageway by Lord Bagot for his wife in the Edwardian times to traverse between Rhewl and Bontuchel. Parts of the drive are privately owned.

2 Railway
Rhewl station was situated on the Denbigh, Ruthin and Corwen Railway which was incorporated under an act of July 1860 opening in stages between March 1862 and October 1864. Rhewl opened with the first section of the line to come into use, between Denbigh and Ruthin, on the 1st March 1862. Complete closure of the line came on the 1st March 1965 after which the track through Rhewl Station was lifted. The station building survived and today it is in use as a private residence. The road overbridge which crossed the line to the south of the station was demolished in the 1970s.

3 Llanynys Church
The Church is dedicated to St Saeran and is the site of a 6th century monastery. The existing church is double naved, with the north nave being older and extended southwards by the building of a second nave. The earliest parts of the existing building date to the 13th century with 15th and 16th century alterations. The church contains a very important wall painting depicting St Christopher which was discovered in 1967, possibly dating to the first third of the 15th century.

4 River Clwyd and River Clywedog
The River Clwyd is the main river that flows through the Vale of Clwyd, the source of the river is in Clocaeonog Forest with the mouth of the river at the Estuary in Rhyl. Both the River Elwy and the River Clywedog feed into the River Clwyd with the source of the River Clywedog being from the Clywedog Reservoir.
